

COURT HOLDS HAYS MUST PAY COUNTY

Judgment for $518 Rendered Against Former Prosecutor Charged With Retaining Fees.

COMMISSIONERS FILE SUIT.

Defendant Contended That He Was Entitled to 50 Per Cent. for Collection—Other Court News.

After a trial in the circuit court of the case of the board of county commissioners against J. Noble Hays, former prosecuting attorney, for the collection of $603.32, alleged to be the amount of certain fees unlawfully retained by him, a judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff for $518. Hays did not appear at the trial and made no defense.

In accordance with instructions from the state board of accounts John R. Tindler, former county clerk, paid over to the county $1,089.89 as the amount of fees withheld by him as a result of a misunderstanding regarding certain statutes. Later Hays collected this sum with accrued interests, the total aggregating $1,206.67. The defendant claimed that under an old statute he was entitled to fifty per cent. for making the collection while the commissioners contended that he was entitled to only ten per cent. The suit was filed to compel him to pay back the forty per cent. alleged to have been withheld.

Chester Ballard, who it is alleged failed to provide for his family, asked for a change of venue which was granted. O. H. Montgomery being appointed special judge to try the case.

POLICE ARREST FOUR IN RAID TUESDAY NIGHT

Bert Hammond, Released From County Jail Tuesday, is Returned Again This Morning.

Bert Hammond, who was released Tuesday from the county jail where he was held for several months pending a trial in the circuit court, was arrested here Tuesday night and returned to Brownstown this morning. He was slated for associating and was fined $10 and costs and ten days in jail.

Following a report that came to the police station Tuesday night the house occupied by Dick Duggins was raided and Hammond and three others were jailed. Duggins was charged with associating and was given a fine of $20 and ten days in jail. The heavy fine was assessed because this is the second time within a month that he has been brought into police court. He recently completed a sentence at the county jail where he was sent for assault and battery upon his wife.

The two women, Lena Meeh and Katie Hobson, who were arrested Tuesday night, were ordered to leave the city. No sentence was pronounced by the court but they were informed that if they ever returned here they would be taken to jail. Both promised to leave the city at once. Both the women have been jailed several times and have a long police record.

MERCHANTS SEE NEED OF NEW HITCHING GROUND

Lot on Third Street Formerly Used For This Purpose Is No Longer Available.

For a number of years the lot on West Third Street where the Willey Garage is being erected has been used as a hitching ground but when the new improvement is completed the site will not be available for this purpose. Realizing that such a lot should be provided the question has been discussed by a number of business men. It is desired to find a location near the center of the city where horses can be fed and where there will be ample room to park a number of wagons and buggies.

Although the city ordinance provides that there shall be no hitch racks on any of the improved streets, the regulation has not been strictly enforced. A hitching ground is needed here, according to the belief of the business men, and it has been suggested that the matter be brought to the attention of the Merchants' Association or the Commercial Club. It is understood that the ground owned by the B. & O. Southwestern Railroad Company near the cooper shop may be leased for a small amount and that this is the most convenient site available.

CHARGE IS FILED AGAINST JOYRIDER

Crothersville Youth Borrows Horse and Buggy from Livery Barn and is Arrested.

HELD FOR GRAND LARCENY

Clarence Keorver Unable to Satisfactorily Explain Conduct and is Taken to Brownstown.

Clarence Keorver, a young man living near Crothersville, was arrested early this morning upon a charge of grand larceny, it being alleged that he stole a horse and buggy belonging to Dr. P. A. Kendall, a Crothersville physician. Keorver was taken to Brownstown by a deputy sheriff after an affidavit had been made out against him by the owner of the horse. A value of $125 was placed upon the horse and vehicle.

It is charged that the young man entered Warner's livery barn about 7:30 o'clock Thursday night but the employees paid no attention to his visit. About an hour later Dr. Kendall called for his horse and it was discovered that it was gone. A search was at once instituted for the rig and soon after midnight it was found in possession of the prisoner.

Accompanying Keorver were Ernest Lewellyn and Edna Gorbin, of Crothersville, and a girl by the name of Stacker from Scottsburg. It is said that the young man told the officers that he did not intend to steal the horse and only desired to use it a few hours. It had been previously planned that the two couples would spend the evening together. No affidavits were sworn out against the other members of the crowd.

Deputy Prosecutor Wesner was notified of the arrest of the young man and went to Crothersville this morning. An affidavit had been filed in Justice of Peace Hamacker's court but this was dismissed on motion of the deputy prosecutor and the case was refiled in the circuit court. This action was taken as circuit court is in session and it was not necessary to conduct two hearings. The deputy sheriff drove to Brownstown with the young man.

The young man comes from a good family and his parents live on a farm near Crothersville.

EXPLAINS CHURCH EXTENSION PLAN

John H. Booth, of Kansas City, Gives Address at Convention of Churches of Disciples of Christ.

REPORT GIVEN FOR THE YEAR

More Than Sixteen Hundreds New Members Added and Four New Churches Established.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 13—This was woman's day at the state convention of Indiana churches of the Disciples of Christ. Mrs. O. H. Griest, of Carlisle, president of the Christian Women's Board of Missions, presided. Mrs. H. M. Appleman, of South Bend, conducted the devotional exercises at the opening session. John H. Booth, of Kansas City, delivered an address on "Church Extension Values" in which he said one of the greatest values was inspirational.

He explained that the board does not give away its money, but lends it, to be paid in five annual payments. The board began thirty-five years ago, with $10,000, has helped 1,700 churches with loans, amounting to $2,500,000. It has helped create properties valued at $7,500,000. In Indiana it has aided fifty-five churches with $125,000 and property worth $400,000. Booth said the denomination is now growing more rapidly than at any time in its history.

Perhaps the heartiest reception in the way of applause any speaker received was for F. L. Herod, colored, pastor of the Second church of Indianapolis. When introducing him, C. W. Cagle, state secretary, said that Marshal Levees, the Columbus retired manufacturer, said he would give $1,000 if the congregation of Mr. Herod's church raised the other $2,000 on the church debt by January 1 next. The colored minister said that there are six thousand colored members of the church in the state and that the number is increasing. Mr. Reeves was to have spoken at the convention on "Our Indiana Preachers" from the layman's point of view, but he was unable to be here. His modesty is such that on the program, by his request, the address was set down only as "by a prominent layman."

Report of the year's work of the church Tuesday at the diamond jubilee convention of the church. The report of the directors showed that more than sixteen hundred persons had been added to the membership, that four new churches had been organized, and that five Christian Endeavor societies had been organized. It also showed that ninety-five meetings were held by regular and volunteer evangelists, and that thirteen counties organized for cooperative work. The additional membership included 1,051 by baptism and 573 by statement.

The financial statement of the directors showed a gain in the balance in the treasury. The receipts were $16,592.77, with a balance of $847.31 on May 1, 1913. The disbursements amounted to $15,959.05, leaving a balance of $1,481.03.

TWELVE INITIATED INTO ORDER OF ROYAL ARCANUM

Class Organized Here by D. J. McMullan, Deputy Supreme Regent — More Applications Filed.

Twelve new members were initiated Tuesday night into the mysteries of the Royal Arcanum by the Seymour Council, No. 1942. The class was organized by D. J. McMullan, of Indianapolis, deputy supreme regent. He will remain in Seymour for two weeks and will organize another class here. Already a half dozen applications have been received.

The work was given by the degree team composed of the following members: Regent, William O. Shepard; Vice-regent, William Hopkins; Past Regent, Joseph Brown; Orator, Anthony Schriek; Secretary, M. A. Barick; Collector, George Baird; Treasurer, George M. Ley; Chaplain, E. L. Hancock; Guide, Frank Starks. The work was exemplified in a very able manner before a large number of the members.

After the degree was given a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. The members declared the meeting to be one of the most enjoyable that has been held for some time.

The Royal Arcanum was organized in 1877 and has a membership of 250,477. Practically every state in the union is represented. An insurance is provided by the order which has an emergency fund of approximately six million dollars.

MISS ANNA M. NEWMAN SENDS PAINTINGS FOR THE EXHIBIT

Seymour Artists Requested to Advise Secretary What Pictures They Will Contribute.

Miss Anna M. Newman of Richmond, one of the best Indiana artists, has sent several of her paintings for exhibition in the Seymour art exhibit. Among them is her painting "Azaleas," which was awarded first prize at the Richmond art exhibit. The remainder of the group which she sent contains a number of valuable paintings.

Secretary Earl N. Cox is receiving word almost every day of additional paintings which will be on exhibition here. He is now busy preparing the catalogue which will contain a complete list of all paintings sent for exhibition. He requests that the Seymour artists advise him at once what paintings they will contribute so that they may be properly classified in the catalogue which will be published next week. All titles should be in his hands not later than Saturday of this week.

The exhibition will open sometime the last week in May, the date probably on Tuesday, May 26th, at the Shields High School. The interest which has been taken in the exhibit by artists all over the state is especially gratifying and gives promise of an exhibition that will be well worth careful attention and study by every one interested in art.

Sheriff Robertson took Mabel Thompson to the Girls' Industrial School at Clermont today. The girl came here on a freight train in company with a transient printer and was taken in custody by the police. She said she was fifteen years of age and that her home was at Washington. She was charged with delinquency and pleaded guilty Tuesday in juvenile court. During the last few months four women and girls from this county have been sent to prison or the Girls' School.

TRUTH DEMANDED ABOUT EXECUTION

State and War Departments Ask Huerta for Statement About Death of Private Parks.

TAMPICO MAY FALL VERY SOON

Heavy Firing Has Continued Since Midnight and Rebels Are Confident of Taking City.

By United Press.

Washington, May 13.—Stirred to action by the continued reports that Private Earl Parks, of Wabash, Ind., was brutally tortured and executed by Mexican Federal forces, both the state and war departments today demanded the truth from Dictator Huerta and General Maas. The messages received state that the young orderly was riding towards the Federal lines and suddenly disappeared. Afterwards, it is reported, he was held as prisoner and after being tortured several hours was shot to death. The first report of the execution of the American soldier resulted in an unsatisfactory investigation.

Admiral Mayo sent a dispatch to the state department today that the rebels had attacked Tampico and that the city would probably fall within a few hours. Heavy firing has continued since midnight. Rebel leaders are confident of capturing the city today.

It is believed that the result of the battle at Tampico will have a decided influence upon the future of the Mexican situation. In case the rebel army should take the city it will give them an advantageous point and may mark the first step of the ultimate overthrow of the Huerta government.

The guests brought with them forty-four cakes and more than two hundred pies.

Among some of the oldest ladies present were Mrs. Elizabeth Zollman, aged 83; Mrs. Nancy Hurlington, aged 80; Mrs. Maggie Ishom, aged 75; all of Medora; Mrs. Sarah McHargue, aged 75, and Mrs. Jane Weddell, aged 75. Mrs. Holmes received many beautiful presents.
Among those from a distance who were present were: Mrs. Ida Barrett and daughter, Hazel, Oklahoma; Jessie Holmes, East St. Louis; Mrs. Belle Wray and daughter, Miss Bessie, Indianapolis; Mrs. Goldie Davis, Salem; Robert Holmes, Chicago; Mrs. Bessie Dorsey and daughter, Plattsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Marshall, Seymour; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hargitt, Seymour, and many others. Twenty grandchildren and six great grand children were among the guests.
All of Mrs. Holmes' children were at the dinner with the exception of her son, John, who is in California for his health. Her daughter, Mrs. Barnett, of Oklahoma, will remain here for several months before returning home. A number of pictures were taken. The company thoroughly enjoyed the day and when the time came to leave they all joined in congratulating Aunt Angeline upon her successful birthday and all hoped to be able to come again.

REVIEW OF YEAR'S WORK.

Responded to One Hundred and Three Calls, Mostly Wireless Signals For Aid—Hundreds of Lives and Vast Amount of Property Rescued From Waters—Report of Winter's Toil.

Washington.—The winter just closed has been the busiest for the revenue cutter service in its history. During the winter cruising season beginning Dec. 1 and ending March 31 its little fleet has rendered assistance to nearly 1,000 persons and to several million dollars' worth of cargo and vessels.

The cruising fleet was distributed as follows: At Eastport, Me., the Woodbury; at Portland, Me., the Androscoggin; at Boston, the Gresham; at Wood's Hole, Mass., the Acushnet; at New York, the Itasca; at Baltimore and in the Chesapeake bay, the Apache; at Norfolk, the Onondaga; at Wilmington, N. C., the Yamacraw.

The Seneca was sent out from New York the middle of February to resume the north Atlantic ice patrol, which der about to drop off, and towed her into Hampton Roads Jan. 7.

On Jan. 15 the Onondaga was summoned to quell a mutiny on the barge Scully, off Sewall Point. An armed boat's crew boarded the barge, heard testimony on both sides and arrested the ringleader.

On Jan. 25 she rescued the schooner Adam Wilson, which had sunk off Buckroe Beach, Va. The captain with his crew got away in a boat, but he was compelled to leave $2,600 in cash behind. The cutter righted the schooner and towed her into Hampton Roads, and the skipper recovered the money.

On Jan. 26, while cruising off Cape Hatteras, the Onondaga was summoned by wireless to aid the schooner Warren Adams, in danger of being dashed ashore in a heavy gale. Within twenty minutes the cutter was alongside and towed her 120 miles to Hampton Roads.

Many other stories of valuable service are told.

SPRING FEVER BULLETIN OUT.

Rules For Diet and Dress to Counteract Lassitude.

New York.—A list of instructions for the fighting of spring fever was issued by the Young Men's Christian association in a health bulletin for members. It urges first of all that "neither gin rickeys and highballs nor beer should be used as a cure for spring fever," adding that neither medicine nor alcoholic drinks of any kind can cure that malady. The real cause of the general lassitude of office folk these days, the bulletin asserts, is the clogging up of the body with food beyond the amount necessary to supply the proper amount of heat units.

The bulletin urges the observation of these health rules:

"Eat lightly. The body doesn't need the amount of food that it does in winter.

"Exercise regularly. Help nature by training down.

"The man with the paunch may look prosperous, but it's dollars to doughnuts he'd feel better without the abdominal hump.

"Dress for the season. Discard your heavy winter clothing, but do it gradually.

"Breathe in plenty of fresh air to wash the blood and help carry off waste.

"Most people experience a distaste for fat foods at this season. It is a good thing. Shun fat foods. Your body doesn't need them.

"Eat plenty of fresh vegetables and fruits. A tasty salad is more beneficial than steak."

CAT SWIMS RIVER TWICE.

Seemingly Lonesome When Owner Is Absent For a Few Days.

Denver.—Braving the waters of the Grand river rather than stay on a ranch alone, Murphy, a Maltese tomcat belonging to Ad Hockett, a wealthy rancher of Dotsero, Colo., swam a mile when he was left on the ranch while Hockett went to Glenwood Springs on a business trip.

The day after Hockett left his ranch Murphy went to the river bank, where he sat for an hour and then swam the stream to the opposite side, where he sought company at a neighboring ranch.

Four days later, when Hockett returned and found Murphy missing, he began a search for his mascot.

Standing on the river bank, he saw his cat swimming back. When Murphy reached the shore he jumped on his master's shoulder.

At the point where Murphy swam the river the stream is treacherous, and several men have been swept down the stream by the swift current.

OF NEW ORLEANS

Bears Signatures of Those Who Fought Behind Cotton Bales.

New Orleans.—Interest in the slumbering cotton bale theory of the battle of New Orleans has been aroused by the finding of a water color picture map of the original battle plan in an abandoned trunk in the cellar of a hotel. Little is known about the drawing or the other contents of the trunk, which has remained unnoticed for years in a dark corner.

Five veterans of the battle had added their signatures to the remarkable map to attest the fact that it is a true representation of the battle plan as made under the direction of Andrew Jackson by his military engineer, H. Lacotte. It shows a line of cotton bales, which a marginal note says was 1,000 feet long, with a prolongment extending 600 feet into the woods. Some historians deny the story about the use of cotton bales.

The five veterans who say they fought behind cotton bales were Joseph St. Cyr, Jean Lamont, P. M. Lapice, Charles Raymond and Jean Gervais. Pen pictures of these men appear in the footnotes.

A full view of the Chalmette field is given, and the veteran draftsmen have set forth the placing of the different commands and the plan of attack and defense.

It is thought the map and the trunk in which it was found were the property of a former patron of the hotel who took "French leave."

TRAVEL 620 MILES ON SKIS.

Russian Soldiers Cover Distance In Twenty-three Days.

St. Petersburg.—The three officers and sixty-four noncommissioned officers and men of the Ismailovsky Guards regiment, who have reached Tsarskoe Selo from Archangel on skis have accomplished a remarkably fine performance, having covered the distance of more than 620 miles in twenty-three days.

Most of the country traversed was hilly and thickly wooded. The wind had cleared away most of the snow over a considerable stretch and intermittent thaws impeded the progress of the party. On two occasions packs of wolves hovered around the skiers.

In some of the remoter districts the appearance of the skiers caused much excitement among the peasants, some of whom took them for a band of escaped convicts. Others believed that that were the advance guard of a foreign army invading Russia, and in several villages the children ran away and hid themselves in the woods.

The greatest difficulty experienced by the party was in the transport of provisions and reserve skis. These were carried on horseback, but numerous relays of horses had to be requisitioned. The equipment of the men weighed about twenty pounds.

GIRL IS A CANDIDATE.

Oregon Woman Wants to Be County Treasurer—Her Platform.

Astoria, Ore. — Though two women have thus far declared their intention to run for county offices, only one has filed. Miss Kate Kelly, scarcely out of her teens, daughter of William Kelly, who is expected to file for the nomination of state senator on the Democratic ticket, filed her petition with the county clerk, announcing her candidacy for county treasurer.

Miss Kelly two years ago managed her father's campaign for councilman. Kelly lost by twelve votes, though he was running against an experienced politician and did not enter the race until the last minute.

In her platform she says, "If I am nominated and elected I will during my term of office perform the duties of such office faithfully and with due regard to the interests of all the people of Clatsop county." As her policy she declared for "honesty, efficiency and economy, prompt and courteous treatment to all."

Mary Melroe is circulating a petition for county clerk on the Democratic ticket.

FINE CHECKS AND DARK PLAIDS FAVORED FOR TAILORED SUITS

Almost extinct is the old-fashioned, strictly tailored suit; it has been replaced by one showing easier lines; this may be suitably worn accompanied by one of the sheer lace blouses that have become such general favorites for the past season or two, for an afternoon tea or a bridge party. The ever-young shepherd checks in black and white are being combined with plain cloth or serge in these suits and at a recent showing of French models quite a number of colored checks were noticed. It is a pleasing fact to note the lines with a light green or scarlet; this introduces just enough contrast for conservative dressers and renders the dress or suit more becoming.

The suit shown in No. 7955-7420 has a coat of black cloth with skirt of black and white check; revers and vest are also of the check. Black bone buttons are used to trim and close the coat. This coat (7955) may be made in size 36, with 3 1/4 yards of 42-inch material; the skirt (7420) requires 3 1/4 yards of the same width.

A figured silk crepe is used in the other gown, 8127-8143; it is two shades of blue with trimming bands and sash of plain blue satin. A chemise of net and black velvet buttons complete the frock. To copy this dress in size 36 the blouse (8127) requires 2 1/4 yards of 36-inch material and the skirt (8143) 4 yards of the same width.

JAIL SYSTEMS.

In an address before the national conference of charities and corrections at Memphis, Tuesday, Amos W. Butler, secretary of the Indiana board of charities, bitterly denounced the county jail system in the United States and much of what he says is worthy of serious reflection. He characterized the county jail as the "spoils of party politics" and declared that they are insanitary and badly managed. He denounced the fee system under which the majority of the jails are conducted.

Mr. Butler points out that under the present plan county jails are conducted for profit and as long as the system remains unchanged there is little likelihood of the many needed reforms being made. He argues that the county sheriff and other peace officers should be agents for the improvement of social welfare and that many times a word of encouragement would have a wholesome effect upon a man or woman who is walking towards the paths of vice and wrong. He asserts that the best officer is one that makes the fewest arrests rather than the one who makes the largest number, carrying out the idea that every police officer should be a social agent.

The speaker stated that prisoners who are unable to pay their fines for misdemeanors are thrown into jail and are thus held for the debt. Strictly speaking a fine cannot be classed as a debt as it is the punishment which has been provided by the state legislature. The law makers of this state and other states of the union have adopted a criminal code whereby persons found guilty of petty offenses may be fined or imprisoned. All offenders found guilty are punished in exactly the same way under the same laws. They all have the opportunity to pay the fine assessed against them, but in case that fine is not paid their punishment is a term in the county jail. In this sense a jail sentence is not the payment of a debt but is a punishment for a wrong committed against society.

While in many cases it is advisable to release a prisoner upon parole, it appears to us that the plan can be very easily overdone. When a man is sentenced to a state reformatory, prison or county jail, he has been adjudged guilty of an offense against the state. If our penal system is to be revised so that a criminal is to be released upon the mere promise of good behavior, we fear that the effect will be bad. Many men who are hardened in the ways of crime do not feel the stigma of shame of a jail or prison record. The only way society will be protected from their wrongs is to incarcerate them in one of the penal institutions. While some good, of course, comes from the indeterminate sentence law and the method of paroling prisoners, a vast amount of wrong has also resulted. The evil effects have been enough to justify a very careful consideration of the plan before it is further extended.

fects have been enough to justify a very careful consideration of the plan before it is further extended.

A STRANGE THEORY.

"The greatest Legislature ever convened in Indiana" (that of 1913) created the office of Fire Marshal, who draws the princely salary of $4,500, with assistants and clerks galore, costing at least $19,000 per year. The following monstrous stuff originating from the Fire Marshal's office, reads thusly:

"There is too much sympathy for the man who has a fire. The people of the United States should adopt the attitude now common in Europe, that a fire, in itself is almost a crime. They naturally hold the owner responsible. He should have to prove his own innocence rather than require a public officer to definitely prove him at fault."

A man who puts out such sentiments is a disgrace to the State of Indiana. It is a malicious libel on the people of the state who have fires.—Scott County Journal.

And furthermore such statements will destroy what little good the state fire marshal's office might do in Indiana. The office was created at the instance of the fire insurance companies for the purpose of conducting a campaign against carelessness with the hope of reducing fire losses. If the fire marshal thinks that fires in Indiana are purposely originated for profit he is mistaken. Insurance policies are carried only for protection, and those who are so unfortunate as to have their homes or other property destroyed are heavy losers.

CANADIAN OATS IN MADISON.
(Madison Courier.)

W. H. Miller received last week a car of oats (2,000 bushels) from his farm in Alberta, Canada. This shipment is the first foreign grown oats or grain to reach Madison since the passage of the present tariff law, and it is attracting quite a bit of attention.

The quality is unusually good and the weight is about 44 pounds to the bushel.

In Alberta, where the oats are grown, they are worth 28 cents a bushel and can be brought here for slightly less than the market price of native oats.

We fear it will be impossible to keep this news, as well as that of the importation of Argentine corn, from our free trade congressman, Lincoln Dixon. Up to date Mr. Dixon has not taken much stock in the stories of the importation of foreign grains, under the Wilson-Underwood bill for which he fought so valiantly and which he upholds so strenuously. Madison is probably not more than 25 miles distant from North Vernon, the home of Congressman Dixon, and doubtless news at first hand of the importation of cheap Canadian-grown oats will be borne to his ears, but even then will he be convinced? He will probably hear something else to his discomfort along about the third of next November.

COST SYSTEM ON FARM PROFITABLE

Department of Agriculture Says it is Important to Keep Accurate Record of Expenditures.

TO IMPROVE ORGANIZATION Country Passing Through Third Serious Epidemic of Hog Cholera in Thirty Years.

By United Press.

Washington, May 13—Mr. American Farmer, C. P. A., that's what the United States Department of Agriculture is endeavoring to make out of the tiller of the soil. And up to date farmer is almost equal to a Certified Public Accountant. He determines the cost, income and profit of each individual enterprise on the farm. He knows about the Taylor Efficiency System or something like it to determine the management and use of a man labor, horse labor and farm machinery. The cost of living on the farm is figured out in detail and savings discovered through the book-keeping records.

Farm cost accounting is a science. The Department gives it considerable attention. Mr. Farmer is advised that commercial cost accounting will not necessarily do for the farm. The thing which distinguishes it from ordinary business is that the farm, in addition to being business and factory combined, is a home. And the home finances are so involved in those of the farm that it is necessary to use care and thought to avoid confusing the farmer's personal business as a man with his business as a farmer. He may make a profit in his farming operations and still be falling behind by reason of his high personal and living expenses; or he may not be making two per cent. on his investment and yet forge ahead by keeping down personal expenses.

The Department of Agriculture pointed out in its latest bulletin that by keeping complete farm cost records these conditions can be shown in their true light and the farmer—if he is a C. P. A.—enabled to discover the weak spots in his business organization.

Would you like to know the "factors of profitability" in farming? Professor Spillman says they are:

1. Low real estate prices.
2. Farm products of classes deficient in supply.
3. Magnitude of the farm business, measured either by land farm or amount of labor required.
4. High quality in products.
5. Reputation of the producer applies especially to the production of pure breeding stock.
6. Advantageous marketing.
7. Productiveness of animals kept.
8. Largest yield with relatively little labor and fertilizer.
9. Low cost of production. (Involves good farm organization.)
10. Eatability of profit depends on the staple character of the products.

The country is passing through the third serious epidemic of hog cholera, according to the Department of Agriculture. This year's loss of swine up to date is estimated at 119 to every 1,000, which exceeds last year's heavy loss of 110 per thousand. Probably more than 90 per cent. of the loss was from cholera. In dollars this loss amounted to the immense sum of $73,000,000.

This is the third serious epidemic in thirty years. The first period reached its climax in 1886 to 1887 and the ratio was 134 per thousand head. The second outbreak developed in 1896 and lasted until 1897 at the rate of 144 per thousand. Iowa the worst sufferer of the present epidemic, which began in 1911, lost over 1,800,000 swine, more than a fourth of the entire number in the state. In the southern states usually the heaviest losers from hog cholera the disease has abated somewhat but has increased greatly in the northern states. The tendency of the three epidemics has been in a general way, to move as a wave from south and east to north and west. A reliable serum and strict quarantine are the only measures known with which to fight the disease successfully.

Ten to twenty per cent of the total value of the American wool crop is lost annually through the neglect of a few simple measures, according to experts of the Department of Agriculture. Poor handling of American wools is so noticeable that the price is inevitably affected and the handicap would be removed to a great extent if all growers agreed to do four things. Sack ewe, lamb and buck fleeces in separate sacks. Shear black sheep separately and keep the fleeces separate. Tie the fleeces with paper twine, which does not adhere to the wool. Remove the tags or dung locks and put them in separate sacks marked to show their contents.

INDIANA ELKS TO MEET AT EVANSVILLE MAY 26-28

Prizes Offered for Largest Delegations in Parade at Thirteenth State Convention.

The program for the thirteenth annual state reunion of Elks which is to be held at Evansville May 26, 27 and 28 in connection with the silver jubilee of the Evansville lodge 116, has just been issued by Secretary Harry Loewenthal. The convention will bring 1,500 Elks to Evansville and the lodge is making big preparations for the entertainment.

The convention will open at 11 o'clock Tuesday, May 26, with a business session of the Indiana state reunion association in the lodge room at the Elks home. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon an automobile trip for visiting women will be given, starting from the Elks home. At 8 o'clock in the evening a prize session for the exemplification of ritualistic work by contesting lodges for the banner presented by the reunion association will be held. The first day's session will be closed by theater parties at the New Grand.

The second day consists of a business session in the morning at which addresses by Grand Exalted Rule Edward Leach and other grand officers will be made. At 2:30 in the afternoon the grand parade will be held. This will be one of the features of the convention. Prizes of $50 each for the largest number from any one lodge in line, for the handsomest and for the most unique uniforms will be offered. J. C. Johnson is grand marshal of the parade and Clint Rose chief of staff. The parade will consist of a platoon of police, followed by the grand marshal and mounted staff. Warren's band, Evansville lodge 116, acting as an escort to the visiting lodges, the grand officers and officers of the state reunion association, and finally the visiting lodges, each headed by their own band, when so accompanied.

Following the parade and the awarding of prizes street cars will be taken to Cook's park where an old fashioned Kentucky barbecue and fish fry will be held. At 4 o'clock the band contest will be staged. In this contest all of the visiting bands, of which there is expected to be a large number, will hold a melody contest. Prizes of $100, $50 and $25 have been provided for the first, second and third in merit. After the band contest the management of the park will provide entertainment.

The third day will consist of the concluding business in the morning, a bill game between Ft. Wayne and Evansville in the afternoon, and a river trip on the John S. Hopkins and barges in the evening.

Early Ripening Corn.

L. A. Vogler & Son's Pure Bred Seed Corn. Testing 96 per cent. growth and guaranteed by Mr. Vogler to be correct. It is a very early ripener. As the farmer surely knows that an early ripener is what is needed in this community. To convince the farmers that it takes a good quality of corn to make a good article, call and examine the hominy meal I have for sale. I carry a good stock of cow peas, soy beans and the very best German millet. In fact, you will find everything that is kept in first class feed stores for sale, and prices very reasonable.

WHY WOMEN ARE SHREWD BUYERS

Any man will tell you that his wife can get more out of a dollar than he can.

Women have the natural value sense—they know what their money's worth means.

One reason for this is that women are great readers of advertising. No part of a newspaper is of greater interest to them than the advertising columns.

They study them daily and they shop as carefully through the newspapers as they do when they go to the store themselves.

Without the advertising the newspapers would lose half of their women readers. Incidentally, local merchants would lose more than half of their business.

Would you like to know more about it while you are working

FACING A NEW COMPLICATION

Muddle in the Mexican Situation Growing Denser.

SEIZURE OF LOBOS ISLAND

Huerta's Grievance in That Connection Has Put the State Department on the Defensive, and the Revelation That a Bunch of Snipers Held For Trial at Vera Cruz Are South Americans Doesn't Help Matters.

Vera Cruz, May 13.—It is reported here that the Mexican envoys to the mediation conference, who sailed from Vera Cruz with their wives and families and such household goods as they could carry, contemplate cabling their resignations to General Huerta upon their arrival in Havana. They are said to be extremely angry and anxious to leave the country. According to reports they have neither instructions nor credentials, but wisely refrained from expressing anger or announcing their determination to resign until they were safely away from Mexico.

Washington, May 13.—The Mexican situation is in a worse muddle today than at any other time since the mediation proceedings began. The new embarrassments have come chiefly through the disclosure that Huerta has in his possession a paper signed by the commanding officer of the United States navy destroyer Fanning, certifying that the light on Lobos island off the gulf coast of Mexico was taken by force by the United States. This remarkable development, following Huerta's protest to the mediators that the seizure of Lobos island constituted a violation of the armistice, was a shock to the state department. Secretary Bryan had denied that there was any seizure of the island and had contended that the United States had merely maintained the light after it had been deserted by the Mexican keepers.

Mr. Bryan was kept busy explaining to the mediators that this extraordinary certificate merely represented an act of courtesy and that it was in no way to be construed as an acknowledgment that the naval forces had seized the island. It meant merely that the commanding officer of the Fanning had insisted that the machinery necessary for operating the light be left behind by the keeper.

Another Complication.

Huerta, with his present disposition to push charges of bad faith, is certain to make the most of this incident. While morally the United States was justified in taking possession of the light, authorities doubt whether technically they had the right to do so. On top of this controversy has come another note from Huerta's government to the mediators, adding to the perplexity of the United States. Huerta has called attention to the fact that five of the snipers at Vera Cruz who have been arrested and are about to be put on trial for their lives are not Mexican subjects, but citizens of South American countries. Unfortunately three of these men are Chileans and one of them may be a Brazilian. These are two of the countries now engaged in promoting the mediation program. The fifth sniper is a Peruvian. All five were taken from a Norwegian vessel in the harbor.

It is not plain yet what Huerta's purpose is in raising the question of the nationality of these men through the mediation board, but the matter is regarded in Washington as sufficiently serious to warrant the suspension of any further proceeding against them until diplomatic exchanges have been concluded.

This incident alone will emphasize the fact, already recognized here, that the invasion of Mexico aroused keen resentment not only in that republic, but throughout Latin America generally. The situation in regard to United States Consul John R. Silliman, who was thrown into jail at Saltillo, has cleared somewhat. A dispatch was received from the Brazilian minister in Mexico City saying that he had received assurance from the minister of war that Consul Silliman would be delivered at once and given a safe escort out of the country.

BOY DEMANDS DAMAGES

Says He Is Permanently Injured From Effects of Shot.

Anderson, Ind., May 13.—George W. Pettigrew, a wealthy farmer living near Ingalls, has been made defendant in a personal damage suit, in which Bert Sylvester asks damages in the sum of $2,500. According to the complaint Pettigrew last year had a patch of watermelons, which proved a great temptation to the boys of that locality. It is alleged that Pettigrew began sitting up nights in his melon patch with a shotgun. Sylvester ventured into the patch and was greeted by a load of buckshot. He alleges that it cost him $100 to have the shot picked out by a physician and that he will never again be able to do hard work.

Fire in the business district of Seattle, Wash., caused a loss of $300,000.

NELSON O'SHAUGHNESSY

Former Envoy to Mexico
Confers With President.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

TALKS THINGS OVER WITH THE PRESIDENT

Nelson O'Shaughnessy Calls at the White House.

Washington, May 13.—Last night President Wilson conferred with Nelson O'Shaughnessy, charge of the American embassy at Mexico City, for an hour. It was the first time he had seen Mr. O'Shaughnessy since he was handed his passports by the Mexican secretary of foreign affairs. The interview was described as a pleasant hour's conversation, and it was indicated that the president did as much of the talking as his visitor. Authoritative denial was made that Mr. O'Shaughnessy had returned from Mexico nursing dissatisfaction with the Wilson administration, as did former Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson.

It was learned that the president had in the course of the conference expressed pleasure at Mr. O'Shaughnessy's unquestioned skill in conducting our diplomatic relations with the de facto government of Mexico since the recall of Ambassador Wilson, and personally had thanked the charge.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy was questioned by the president with regard to the personalities of Huerta and other dominating figures in Mexico and information was given, filling in that which the president has gathered from other sources. No effort was made by the diplomatic officer to convince the president that definite changes from the present policy are necessary. Nor was there any evidence from his conversation that he regarded himself as anything other than a subordinate reporting to his superior.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Only twenty Americans are now in the city of Tampico and these have doggedly refused to leave.

Provision for free distribution of seeds has been stricken from the agricultural appropriation bill by the senate.

The Indiana Republican Editorial association will hold its annual mid-summer meeting at Evansville, June 11-13.

The naval appropriation bill was reported to the senate with an increase of $1,182,000 over the bill as it left the house.

A militant suffragette armed with a hatchet damaged a valuable portrait of the Duke of Wellington in the Royal academy at London.

Ed Hamilton, a negro held on the charge of attacking a ten-year-old white girl, was taken from jail at Shreveport, La., and lynched.

"Death to Americans" was written in Spanish in large black letters across the stone doorstep of the United States embassy office in Paris.

The official estimate of the dead as a result of the recent earthquake which destroyed many villages on the eastern slope of Mt. Etna places the number at close to 200.

Compulsory abstinence from the use of tobacco on the part of those admitted to the ministry was recommended to the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south.

Eugene Montero-Rios, one of the best-known Spanish statesmen and the man who drafted the treaty that brought the Spanish-American war to a close, is dead. He was eighty-two years old.

American troops may cross the border into Mexico to capture Rodrigo Quevedo and his band if the Constitutionalists do not quickly put a stop to the depredations by the bandits on American owned property in western Chihuahua.

DEFINITE SPLIT NOW REPORTED

Carranza and Villa Said to Be at Odds.

DUE TO GROWING JEALOUSIES

Conflict of Authority Which Long Had Marked Relations Between Chief of the Constitutionalists and his Commander in the Field Now Declared to Have Reached a Point That Leads to a Parting of the Ways.

El Paso, May 13.—Friends of Gregory Mason, a magazine writer, fear he either is in a Mexican jail at Torreon or has been made way with by rebels. Since May 1, when Mason left El Paso for Torreon, nothing has been heard from him and all efforts to reach him with telegrams and letters have failed. An article by Mason recently was published in the Outlook. In it Villa was described in a manner not very complimentary. H. Lee Clotworthy, who came here from San Antonio, Tex., and who also is a magazine writer, has disappeared in Torreon and friends are unable to find any trace of him.

Juarez, May 13.—Reports continue to be circulated about a break which is supposed to have occurred between Villa and Carranza at Torreon, prior to Carranza's departure for Durango. The supposed rupture between the first chief of the revolution and the commander in chief of the army had its start with the removal of Chao, a Carranza man, as governor of the state of Chihuahua and the appointment of Colonel Fidel Avila, a Villa partisan. The appointment of Avila was announced in a telegram from Villa and not by Carranza.

The report is said to have been brought to the border from Torreon by prominent Mexican refugees who say Villa practically has deposed Carranza. This was denied by the revolutionary junta officials, who said that Villa and Carranza are working in accord and that Carranza had gone to Durango to organize the state government there and align the Arrieta brothers with the revolutionary forces.

The appointment of Avila as military governor of Chihuahua, local Mexicans say, is an indication of the assumption of control of affairs by Villa and the substitution of all Carranza officials with Villa men. They say that Chao was civil governor under Carranza and that Avila is to be military governor under Villa, which indicates that Villa is to take charge of affairs at Chihuahua, at least, if not of the entire military district.

BROTHERS IN DEADLY DUEL

Enmity of Years' Standing Culminated in Desperate Battle.

Warsaw, Ind., May 13.—As the result of a knife duel between the two brothers, fought on the doorstep of a sister's millinery store in Pierceton, John Frohley received wounds that are expected to prove fatal. The duel followed enmity of several years' standing. The brothers, John and Joe, met in Pierceton and without a word sprang at each other with drawn knives. Completely covered with blood and with their flesh shredded and slashed, they were finally separated by bystanders. Joe Frohley will recover. The brothers live on adjoining farms near Pierceton.

NEW LAW NOW EFFECTIVE

Food Packages Must Carry a Statement of Net Weight.

Washington, May 13.—The senate has rejected an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill reducing the proposed appropriation in the bill as it passed the house, from $50,000 to $10,000 for enforcing the migratory bird law. The effect of the vote was to restore the house appropriation of $50,000.

Plans For Indiana Building.

San Francisco, May 13.—Lieutenant Governor O'Neil has started home to bring before the eight other members of the Indiana commission on the Panama-Pacific exposition plans for Indiana's $75,000 pavilion. O'Neil has been here for more than a week and has let a number of contracts for work on the building.

Caught on Interurban Tracks.

Indianapolis, May 13.—Dietrick Kleine, sixty-eight years old, a wealthy farmer who lived near Cumberland, was killed instantly and his wife narrowly escaped death when an interurban car, approaching from the rear, struck Mr. Kleine when the two were walking on the interurban tracks east of Cumberland.

Victim of Highwayman Dying.

Indianapolis, May 13.—Allen Howard, night clerk at the Plaza hotel, who was shot while pursuing a negro highwayman, is in a serious condition. It is said he cannot recover. Horace Perry, colored, the confessed holdup, is charged with shooting with intent to kill and highway robbery.

TAMPICO OIL WELLS NOW RUNNING WILD

Danger of Fire Menaces Important Port.

Vera Cruz, May 13.—General Funston's inquiries of Generals Maas and Navarette regarding the recent execution of Private Sparks have been fruitless. Neither has answered any inquiry concerning the man.

Washington, May 13.—Several oil men from Tampico called on the secretary of state to explain the situation there and its dangers. The Constitutionalists still are besieging the city, which is being stoutly defended.

Twenty thousand barrels of oil each day are running into the Panuco river above Tampico, the oil men declared, as blocking up the river with the federal gunboats had cut off their only means of shipping the oil to tank steamers. The wells in the Panuco field and the Topila field, which is nearer Tampico, are both cut down to their minimum flow, but as all storage tanks are filled at the former wells, the surplus oil cannot be prevented from running into the river.

The secretary was informed that it would be only a short time before the same situation existed at the Topila field and the quantity of oil running into the river would be increased by about 10,000 barrels a day. This property is owned by Americans and Englishmen. The oil floating on the river is an incentive to the Constitutionalists to fire it, making almost certain the destruction of the federal gunboats in the river, the entire water front and all shipping and perhaps menacing even the battleships lying off shore at the mouth of the river. The fire, it is feared, would spread to the wells themselves, totally destroying this vast source of wealth.

NEW LAW NOW EFFECTIVE

Food Packages Must Carry a Statement of Net Weight.

Washington, May 13.—The regulations for the carrying out of the so-called net-weight law, which compels manufacturers to make a clear statement of the weight, volume or contents of their packages of food, have become effective. The regulations in general require that the manufacturer of food shall plainly mark all packages, bottles or other containers holding more than two ounces of liquid, or more than one fluid ounce, to show the net weight or volume of the contents. The quantity stated on the container must represent the actual quantity of food exclusive of wrappings and container.

The order abolishing wine messes in the navy will go into effect on July 1.

SERIOUS FLOOD AT FORT WAYNE

Dikes Broken Last Year Not Repaired.

MANY FAMILIES HOMELESS

Houses in the Lowlands of the City Have Been Isolated, Parks Are Under Water and With More Rain in Sight There is a Grave Prospect of the Flood Sweeping Other Sections of the City.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 13.—With the local rivers at the highest stage they have been since the flood of March, 1913, and with the prediction of a further rise of a foot and a half, Fort Wayne faces the prospect of a small flood. Already some fifty houses in the lowlands have been isolated by the high water and the families have moved out. Two parts of the city that are normally protected by dikes are in danger of being inundated, owing to the fact that breaks in the dikes caused by last year's flood have not yet been repaired. The Central league ball park is under two feet of water, as is Swinney park.

STREET CAR STRUCK AUTO

Young Girl Was Killed and Two Other Persons Hurt.

Hammond, Ind., May 13.—Mary Harmandy, fifteen years old, and her fourteen-year-old companion, Mary Sondick, begged P. Harolovich, a saloon keeper to take them a ride in his auto, and he did so. In turning a corner an electric car struck the touring car, demolishing it and throwing all the passengers out of the auto. Mary Harmandy's skull was fractured. She died at St. Margaret's hospital. Mary Sondick is at her home with her spine twisted and internal injuries. Harolovich's face was crushed and he suffered internal injuries.

Roach May Sue County.

Terre Haute, Ind., May 13.—Judge C. M. Fortune of the circuit court has approved a bill of Joe O'Rach for service as special prosecutor in the trials of William Huffman and Mayor Donn Roberts amounting to $1,875. The county council has refused to make appropriations for the special prosecutors in the election cases, and it is believed that Roach will sue the county.

Saved Lives of Two Women.

Shelbyville, Ind., May 13.—Clarence Clark of this city saved Mrs. Daniel Cayto and Miss Amanda Bailey from death by drowning by swimming to the bank of Blue river with both of them. They had been boating and the boat was upset. Clark swam to shore holding one of the women, while the other held to his foot. Mrs. Cayto had gone down twice before Clark reached her.

Found Death at Daughters' Graves.

Indianapolis, May 13.—Resting his head on a tombstone above the graves of his two daughters in Holy Cross cemetery, Anthony McKearn, fifty-five years old, a railroad engineer, killed himself by taking poison.

Three women were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a hotel at Yuma, Ariz.

HOUSE WILL BUCKLE DOWN TO BUSINESS

Democratic Caucus Adopts Legislative Program.

Washington, May 13.—At a caucus last night the legislative program drafted by Mr. Wilson that will govern the Democrats in congress for the rest of the session was adopted. It provides for the passage of three anti-trust bills in addition to the tolls repeal measure pending in the senate, and sidetracks such proposals as rural credits, bank deposit guarantees and other legislation. Leader Underwood presented the views of the president to the caucus. He said it was Mr. Wilson's belief that it would be a good thing for the country and the party if congress enacted the program indicated as speedily as possible and then adjourned. "In that conclusion I concur," said Mr. Underwood.

As a result of the directions given by the caucus the house will proceed to buckle down to business on the anti-trust bills. The first to be passed will be the bill creating an interstate trade commission. Then will come the Clayton bill, which embodies the major portion of the administration's anti-trust program. This will be followed by the bill giving the interstate commerce commission supervision over the issuance of railway stocks and bonds.

Evidences of Unrecorded Race.

Cambridge, Mass., May 13.—Dr. George A. Reisner, formerly of Indianapolis, professor of Egyptology at Harvard, who is conducting explorations and excavations in Egypt, has sent word to this country that he has discovered evidences of a people and a civilization that existed in upper Egypt 3,700 years ago, and of which no record or evidence has heretofore existed.

Death of Indiana Author.

North Vernon, Ind., May 13.—Mrs. Mary Louise Taylor, age eighty-two is dead at her home in this city. She wrote many juvenile stories that were published in eastern magazines.

The STORY of WAITSTILL BAXTER

CHAPTER III. Something of a Hero.

IVORY went into the little shed room off the kitchen, changed his muddy boots for slippers and made himself generally tidy, then he came back to the living room bringing a pine knot which he hung on the fire, making it to a brilliant flame. "We can be as lavish as we like with the stumps now, mother, for spring is coming," he said, as he sat down to his meal.

"I've been looking out more than usual this afternoon," she replied. "There's hardly any snow left, and though the walking is so bad I've been rather expecting your father before night. You remember he said when he went away in January that he should be back before the mayflowers bloomed?"

It did not do any good to say: "Yes, mother, but the mayflowers have bloomed ten times since father went away." He had tried that, gently and persistently when first her mind began to be confused, from long grief and hurt love, stricken pride and sick suspense.

"I've been looking out more than usual this afternoon."

Instead of that Ivory turned the subject cheerily, saying, "Well, we're sure of a good season, I think. There's been a grand snowfall and that, they say, is the poor man's manure. Rod and I will put in more corn and potatoes this year. I shan't have to work single handed very long, for he is growing to be quite a farmer."

"Your father was very fond of green corn, but he never cared for potatoes," Mrs. Boynton said, vaguely, taking up her knitting. "I always had great pride in my cooking, but I could never get your father to relish my potatoes." "Well, his son does, anyway," Ivory replied, helping himself plentifully from a dish that held one of his mother's best concoctions, potatoes minced fine and put together into the spider with thin bits of pork and all browned together.

"I saw the Baxter girls today, mother," he continued not because he hoped she would give any heed to what he said, but from the sheer longing for companionship. "The deacon drove off with Lawyer Wilson, who wanted him to give testimony in some case or other down in Milltown. The minute Patty saw him going up Saco hill she harnessed the old starved Baxter mare, and the girls started over to the Lower Corner to see some friends. It seems it's Patty's birthday, and they were celebrating. I met them just as they were coming back and helped them lift the rickety wagon out of the mud. They were stuck in it up to the hubs of the wheels. I advised them to walk up the Town House hill if they ever expected to get the horse home."

"Town House hill!" said Ivory's mother, dropping her knitting. "That was where we had such wonderful meetings. Truly the Lord was present in our midst. And oh, Ivory, the visions we saw in that place when Jacob Cochrane first unfolded his gospel to us! Was ever such a man!"

"Probably not, mother," remarked Ivory dryly. "You were speaking of the Baxters. I remember their home and the little girl who used to stand in the gateway and watch when we came out of meeting. There was a baby too. Isn't there a Baxter baby, Ivory?"

"She didn't stay a baby. She is seventeen years old today, mother."

"You surprise me, but children do grow very fast. She had a strange name, but I cannot recall it."

"Her name is Patience, but nobody but her father calls her anything but Patty, which suits her much better."

"No; the name wasn't Patience, not the one I mean."

"The older sister is Waitstill. Perhaps you mean her." And Ivory sat down by the fire, with his book and his pipe.

"Waitstill! Waitstill! That is it! Such a beautiful name!"

"Waitstill! They also serve who only stand and wait." Wait, I say, on the Lord and he will give thee the desires of thy heart. Those were wonderful days, when we were caught up out of the body and mingled freely in the spirit world." Mrs. Boynton was now fully started on the topic that absorbed her mind, and Ivory could do nothing but let her tell the story that she had told him a hundred times.

"I remember when first we heard Jacob Cochrane speak." (This was her usual way of beginning.) "Your father was a preacher, as you know, Ivory, but you will never know what a wonderful preacher he was. My grandfather, being a fine gentleman and a governor, would not give his consent to my marriage, but I never regretted it, never! Your father saw Elder Cochrane at a revival meeting of the Free Will Baptists in Scarboro and was much impressed with him. A few days later he went to the funeral of a child in the same neighborhood. No one who was there could ever forget it. The minister had made his long prayer when a man suddenly entered the room, came toward the coffin and placed his hand on the child's forehead. The room in an instant was as still as the death that had called us together. The stranger was tall and of commanding presence; his eyes pierced our very hearts, and his marvelous voice penetrated to depths in our souls that had never been reached before."

"Was he a better speaker than my father?" asked Ivory, who dreaded his mother's hours of complete silence even more than her periods of reminiscence.

"He spoke as if the Lord of Hosts had given him inspiration; as if the angels were pouring words into his mouth just for him to utter," replied Mrs. Boynton. "Your father was spell-bound, and I only less so. When he ceased speaking the child's mother crossed the room and, swaying to and fro, fell at his feet sobbing and wailing and imploring God to forgive her sins. They carried her upstairs, and when we looked about after the confusion and excitement the stranger had vanished. But we found him again! As Elder Cochrane said: 'The prophet of the Lord can never be hid; no darkness is thick enough to cover him! There was a six weeks' revival meeting in North Saco, where 300 souls were converted, and your father and I were among them. We had fancied ourselves true believers for years, but Jacob Cochrane unstopped our ears so that we could hear the truths revealed to him by the Almighty! It was all so simple and easy at the beginning, but it grew hard and grievous afterward; hard to keep the path, I mean. I never quite knew whether God was angry with me for backsliding at the end, but I could not always accept the revelations that Elder Cochrane and your father had!'"

Lois Boynton's hands were now quietly folded over the knitting that lay forgotten in her lap, but her low, thrilling voice had a note in it that did not belong wholly to earth. There was a long silence; one of many long silences at the Boynton fireside, broken only by the ticking of the clock, the purring of the cat and the clicking of Mrs. Boynton's needles, as her paroxysm of reminiscence over, she knitted ceaselessly, with her eyes on the window or the door.

"It's about time for Rod to be coming back, isn't it?" asked Ivory.

"He ought to be here soon, but perhaps he is gone for good. It may be that he thinks he has made us a long enough visit. I don't know whether your father will like the boy when he comes home. He never did fancy company in the house."

Ivory looked up in astonishment from his Greek grammar. This was an entirely new turn of his mother's mind. Often when she was more than usually confused he would try to clear the cobwebs from her brain by gently questioning her until she brought herself back to a clearer understanding of her own thought. Thus far her vagaries had never made her unjust to any human creature. She was uniformly sweet and gentle in speech and demeanor.

"Why do you talk of Rod's visiting us when he is one of the family?" Ivory asked quietly.

"Is he one of the family? I didn't know it," replied his mother absently.

"Look at me, mother, straight in the eye. That's right. Now listen, dear, to what I say."

Mrs. Boynton's hair, that had been in her youth like an aureole of corn silk, was now a strange yellow white, and her blue eyes looked out from her pale face with a helpless appeal.

"You and I were living alone here after father went away," Ivory began.

"I was a little boy, you know. You and father had saved something, there was the farm, you worked like a slave, I helped, and we lived somehow, do you remember?"

"I do indeed. It was cold, and the neighbors were cruel. Jacob Cochrane had gone away, and his disciples were not always true to him. When the magnetism of his presence was withdrawn they could not follow all his revelations, and they forgot how he had awakened their spiritual life at the first of his preaching. Your father was always a staunch believer, but when he started on his mission and went to Parsonsfield to help Elder Cochrane in his meetings the neighbors began to criticize him. They doubted him. You were too young to realize it, but I did, and it almost broke my heart."

"I was nearly twelve years old. Do you think I escaped all the gossip, mother?"

"You never spoke of it to me, Ivory." "No, there is much that I never spoke of to you, mother, but some time when you grow stronger and your memory is better we will talk together. Do you remember the winter, long after father went away, that Parson Lane sent me to Fairfield academy to get enough Greek and Latin to make me a school-master?"

"Yes," she answered uncertainly. "Don't you remember I got a free ride downriver one Friday and came home for Sunday, just to surprise you? And when I got here I found you ill in bed, with Mrs. Mason and Dr. Perry taking care of you. You could not speak, you were so ill, but they told me you had been up in New Hampshire to see your sister, that she had died, and that you had brought back her boy, who was only four years old. That was Rod. I took him into bed with me that night, poor, homesick little fellow, and, as you know, mother he's never left us since."

"I didn't remember I had a sister. Is she dead, Ivory?" asked Mrs. Boynton vaguely.

"If she were not dead do you suppose you would have kept Rodman with us when we hadn't bread enough for our own two mouths, mother?" questioned Ivory patiently.

"No, of course not. I can't think how I can be so forgetful. It's worse sometimes than others. It's worse today because I knew the mayflowers were blooming, and that reminded me it was time for your father to come home. You must forgive me, dear, and will you excuse me if I sit in the kitchen awhile? The window by the side door looks out toward the road, and if I put a candle on the sill it shines quite a distance. The lane is such a long one, and your father was always a sad stumbler in the dark! I shouldn't like him to think I wasn't looking for him when he's been gone since January."

Ivory's pipe went out, and his book slipped from his knee unnoticed.

His mother was more confused than usual, but she always was when spring came to remind her of her husband's promise. Somehow, well used as he was to her mental wanderings, they made him uneasy tonight. His father had left home on a fancied mission, a duty he believed to be a revelation given by God through Jacob Cochrane. The farm did not miss him much at first. Ivory reflected bitterly, for since his fanatical espousal of Cochrane his father's interest in such mundane matters as household expenses had diminished month by month until they had no meaning for him at all. Letters to wife and boy had come at first, but after six months, during which he had written from many places, continually deferring the date of his return, they had ceased altogether. The rest was silence. Rumors of his presence here or there came from time to time; but, though Parson Lane and Dr. Perry did their best, none of them were ever substantiated.

Where had those years of wandering been passed, and had they all been given even to an imaginary and fantastic service of God? Was his father dead? If he were alive, what could keep him from writing? Nothing but a very strong reason or a very wrong one, so his son thought at times. Since Ivory had grown to man's estate he understood that in the later days of Cochrane's preaching his "visions," "inspirations" and "revelations" concerning the marriage bond were a trifle startling from the old fashioned, orthodox point of view. His most advanced disciples were to hold themselves in readiness to renounce their former vows and seek "spiritual consorts," sometimes according to his advice, sometimes as their inclinations prompted.

Had Aaron Boynton forsaken willingly the wife of his youth, the mother of his boy? If so he must have realized to what straits he was subjecting them. Ivory had not forgotten those first few years of grinding poverty, anxiety and suspense. His mother's mind had stood the strain bravely, but it gave way at last; not, however, until that fatal winter journey to New Hampshire, when cold, exposure and fatigue did their worst for her weak body. Religious enthusiast, exalted and impressionable, a natural mystic, she had probably always been, far more so in temperament, indeed, than her husband; but, although she left home on that journey a frail and heart-sick woman, she returned a different creature altogether, blurred and confused in mind, with clouded memory and irrational fancies.

She must have given up hope just then, Ivory thought, and her love was so deep that when it was uprooted the soil came with it. Now hope had returned because the cruel memory had faded altogether. She sat by the kitchen window in gentle expectation, watching, always watching.

And this is the way many of Ivory Boynton's evenings were spent, while the heart of him, the five-and-twenty-year-old heart of him, was longing to feel the beat of another heart, a girl's heart only a mile or more away. The ice in Saco water had broken up and the white blocks sailed majestically down toward the sea. Sap was mounting and the elm trees were budding; the trailing arbutus was blossoming in the woods; the robins had come—everything was announcing the spring, yet Ivory saw no changing seasons in his future; nothing but winter, eternal winter there!

NEVER SUSPECTED KIDNEY TROUBLE

Gained Fifty Pounds in Weight

Some time ago I was suffering from what I supposed was rheumatism. I became so bad that I could hardly get on my feet from a sitting position. I ran down in weight from 195 to 145 pounds. I tried different kinds of medicine, but received little or no help. I saw Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root highly recommended for kidney trouble but I never had an idea that my kidneys were affected. I thought I would try a fifty cent bottle of Swamp-Root and see what the effect would be. I commenced taking it according to directions and in a few days I saw that it was helping me. I used the fifty-cent bottle and then bought three more dollar bottles and they completely cured me. I have gone back to my original weight—195 pounds—and I am a thorough advocate of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as I believe it to be a remarkable preparation for what it is recommended to do.

There Was a Difference.

When Dr. Randall Davidson, archbishop of Canterbury, was a curate, one day at Dartford he took a Sunday school class in a neighboring parish. The subject was "King Solomon," and after the lesson he proceeded to catechise the children.

"Tell me, boys," he said, "what was the difference between Solomon and other men?" No answer. "Come, come!" said the future archbishop. "Was there any difference, for instance, between King Solomon and myself?"

A tiny hand went up, and a tiny voice replied, "Please, sir, Solomon was wise!"—London M. A. P.

Helping Kidneys By Clearing Blood

A Function Greatly Assisted
By a Well-Known Remedy.

Most readers will be interested to more clearly understand why analysis of urine is so important. In the use of S. S. S. to purify the blood, its action is a stimulant to the myriad of fine blood vessels that make up the constructive tissues of the kidneys. All the blood from all over the body must pass through the kidneys. They act as filters and excretors. And according to what they allow to pass out in the urine, both as to quantity and materials, the health of the kidneys and the quality of the blood is determined. The catalytic energy forced by S. S. S. is shown in the urine. It is also demonstrated in the skin. And as the blood continues to sweep through the kidneys the dominating nature of S. S. S. acting as it does through all the avenues of elimination, shows a marked decrease of disease manifestations as demonstrated by urine analysis. This assistance is a great relief to the kidneys. The body wastes are more evenly distributed to the excretories; their elimination is stimulated by the tonic action afforded the liver, lungs, skin and kidneys. Thus, in cases of rheumatism, cystitis, chronic sore throat, huskiness of voice, bronchitis, asthma and the myriad of other reflex indications of weak kidney action, first purify your blood with S. S. S., so it will enable the tissues to rebuild the cellular strength and regain the normal health.

S. S. S. is prepared by The Swift Specific Co., 527 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga., and if you have any deep-seated or obstinate blood trouble, write to their Medical Dept. for free advice.

The most economical, cleansing and germicidal of all antiseptics is

Paxtine

A soluble Antiseptic Powder to be dissolved in water as needed.

As a medicinal antiseptic for douches in treating catarrh, inflammation or ulceration of nose, throat, and that caused by feminine ills it has no equal. For ten years the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. has recommended Paxtine in their private correspondence with women, which proves its superiority. Women who have been cured say it is "worth its weight in gold." RADIUM ORE VEINS IN SILVER MINES

"Enough to Supply the World," Says Commissioner.

Denver.—"Colorado has enough radium bearing ore to supply the world," says Thomas R. Henahan, state commissioner of mines, in announcing that carnotite has been found in considerable quantities in the silver ores of Eagle county, in the western part of the state.

"If you had told me a month ago that carnotite and silver could be found together I probably would have laughed at you," he said. "But it certainly is mixed with the silver in the Eagle ores. Of a shipment of twenty-five tons of ore recently made, five tons were carnotite."

"The shipment gave eight-tenths of 1 per cent of uranium, from which radium is extracted. It is probable that if the carnotite ore had been shipped by itself without mixture, it would have shown 4 per cent uranium."

The discovery is the first of carnotite in veins underground. The carnotite which has been located in Montrose and other counties composing what is known as the "radium field" has all been on the surface. In Eagle county the carnotite is mixed with the silver ore in the underground veins. The pitchblende of Gilpin and Clear Creek counties has hitherto been the only underground radium bearing ore found in the state.

A report in regard to the number of radium claims located in Montrose county states that ninety-seven have been located in the county this year in comparison with 105 in 1913. Up to Dec. 31, 1913, there had been in all 196 claims filed in the county.

GOVERNOR TO NAME ROADS COMMISSION

Two Men From Each Congressional District Will Discuss Means of Improving Highways.

TO BE STATEWIDE MOVEMENT

Indiana Executive Says Prosperity For Farmer Means Good Times For Whole Community.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 13.—Governor Ralston probably will within ten days or two weeks appoint his commission to study the question of good roads. This commission will represent the entire state and every section of the state. It will be made up of practical men. There may be one man from each of the eighteen congressional districts on the committee and there may be more, but it is practically certain that there will be at least thirteen men on the commission.

The governor has been deliberate in choosing the men to serve on this commission. He told the United States Press today that he would not hurry this matter because he wants to be sure that the men he nominates will be equipped to serve the state well in this capacity. "I have set no time when the commission shall be named, and I refuse to be hurried," he said.

Governor Ralston now has before him the names of two men from each congressional district. These names were obtained from commercial organizations and bankers' associations over the state which were asked to investigate competent timber ready to serve on such a commission. Blanks were given these associations. On them were lines for the name and address of the man suggested and a place for remarks. The association suggesting a man was supposed to give his qualifications. Bankers, business men, farmers and expert road builders have been suggested. It is practically certain that several practical engineers will be on the commission.

In Indianapolis Governor Ralston has worked largely through Andrew Smith, one of the vice presidents of the Indiana National bank. Smith has been in touch with bankers' associations and they have either owned farms or automobiles and were interested in good roads from the standpoint of the banker.

"The banker," he said, "wants to see good roads because they mean a quick handling of crops and prosperity for the farmer. If the farmer can handle this crop quickly and inexpensively when prices are high he can place more money in the banks and can spend more in the commercial centers. It means prosperity for the whole community when the farmer is prosperous."

"Then there is the added benefit to be derived from pleasure travel. People in the cities profit from good roads, for they can make rural points easily, and the entire community is made more intimate."

The Commercial Association of Indianapolis has helped the Governor to get in touch with commercial associations over the state, and many names for the new commission have been suggested from this source.

Miss Della A. Rudtke, of Vincennes, was here this morning to spend the day and will leave tonight for a visit in Indianapolis.

GENEROUS WEBSTER.

Daniel Was Willing to Do Uncle Sam a Big Favor.

Daniel Webster was a much greater and more impressive human presence in the old Franklin house taproom than any of his contemporaries or successors. The best stories were always about him and almost invariably hinged upon his notorious indiscretions in the matter of overconviviality. Some of these anecdotes, for sufficiently obvious reasons, never got beyond the currency of oral tradition. Others have been judiciously edited and passed into print. One which I had from original hearers may possibly have escaped general publicity.

The noble Daniel, as everybody knows, was generous before he was just. He was readier to help others out of debt than to discharge his own obligations. He would remember a friend in need and borrow money of a third person to relieve that friend's necessity and then forget to pay the party of the third part. Hence chronic financial embarrassment.

On one notable anniversary Daniel Webster was called upon to "say something" on five different topics of more or less specific gravity. The last and weightiest was "The National Debt." It was late, and the banquet had already passed the "walnuts and wine" stage when the mighty Daniel arose wearily for his culminating outburst of oratory. Thrusting one hand into the expansive bosom of his coat, he stood there in his familiar Jove-like attitude trying to think what his subject was supposed to be.

"The National Debt," whispered the toastmaster, prompting him.

With superhuman dignity the New England Demosthenes pulled himself together and in deep organ tones spoke thus: "And now we come, my fellow citizens, to that momentous consideration, the national debt, gentlemen, the national debt"—fumbling in his waistcoat pocket—"why—it—I'll pay it myself."—From "Reminiscences of Henry Clay Barnabee."

The Pursuit of Pleasure.

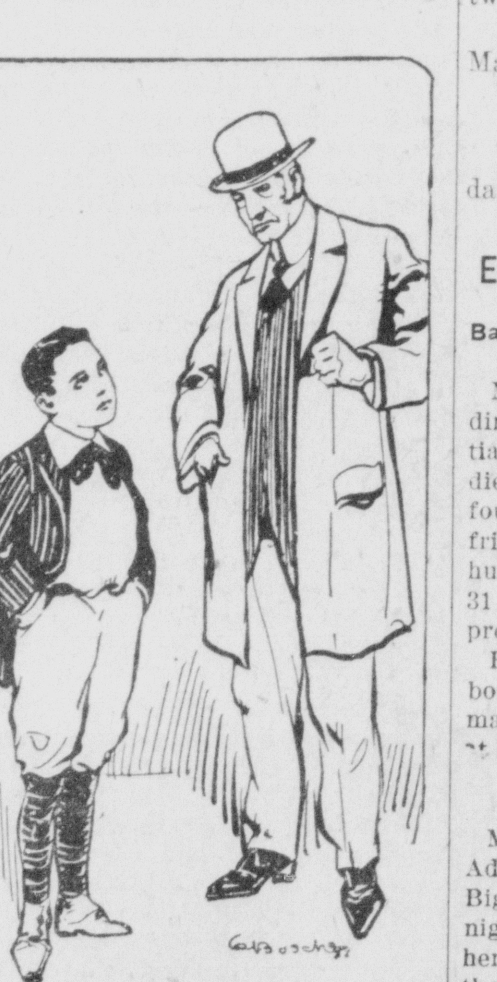

We smile at the ignorance of the savage who cuts down the tree in order to reach its fruits. But the fact is that a blunder of this description is made by every person who is overzealous and impatient in the pursuit of pleasure.

The Wrong Bird.

One of the well known magicians not long ago had a queer experience, but the people in the theater had more fun out of it than he did. One of his tricks was to shake a sack to show that it was empty and then to draw out of it an egg, after which he would always reach in again and bring out the hen that laid the egg. Of course he had to have help in this, and one night he had a new man who did everything just as he had been told until it came to this act. Reaching into the bag, he drew forth the fowl at the usual time, but instead of the hen an old rooster hopped down on to the stage, ruffled its feathers and strutted around, crowing with all its might, while the audience laughed and the magician went out to hunt his new helper.

One of the Old Guys.

Henry Phipps, who accumulated a few hundred million dollars making steel in the good old days, has little use for the Beau Brummel type. One glance at his appearance would lead one to believe that his clothes were remnants from the civil war, and he backs up this belief by carrying an old, faded umbrella. Having an important matter to take up with Chairman Gary, he dropped into the great steel corporation offices and was stopped by an office boy, who happened to be new on the job.

WAS STOPPED BY AN OFFICE BOY.

"I want to see Mr. Gary!" snapped Phipps.

"Can't see him," answered the boy. "There's been four other old guys here before you this morning looking for handouts."—Argonaut.

Just What He Wrote.

"I Seek For Thee In Every Flower," a tenor solo, had been selected by the visitor from the city who was to sing at the village concert. Being asked what he was going to sing, he wrote that he had chosen "I Seek For Thee" (in A flat). In the program it accordingly appeared as "Song—I Seek For Thee In A Flat."

EXILE DIED IN 104TH YEAR.

Baron de Turckheim Was an Intimate Friend of Chopin.

Montreux, Switzerland.—Baron Ferdinand de Turckheim, a French Alsatian exile since the Prussian conquest, died here in his one hundred and fourth year. He was an intimate friend of Chopin and celebrated his one hundred and third birthday on March 31 by playing some manuscript pieces presented to him by the composer.

Baroness de Turckheim, who was born in 1819 and to whom he was married in 1843, is still living and was at her husband's bedside when he died.

Girl Poisons Two Wolves.

Mountain Home, Ark.—Miss Anna Adams, daughter of E. E. Adams of Big Flat, poisoned two wolves a few nights ago that had killed a goat for her the day before. She put poison in the carcass, and next morning when she went out to see the results there were two black timber wolves stretched out dead. The larger of the pair weighed eighty-four pounds.
